Newsletter

April 2013

Welcome to the first Yalara newsletter for 2013. We are looking forward to another great year at the lodge!

Blues Room

Over summer work has continued on Blues Room downstairs under rooms 5 and 6. Heating and carpet is yet to be installed but we have had a delivery of furniture with the help of Bernard Alting and Lachlan Cotter from Canberra. New soundproof gyprock was installed and the room has been painted throughout. A new plasma TV was also installed and we are pleased to report it has great reception from the free to air channels beamed from Canberra

Life Membership

Yalara is considering life membership for people who have been members for more than 25 years, worked for the lodge in a volunteer capacity for 15 years or more and substantially improved the club. Conditions for the life membership proposal will be put to members at this year's AGM.

Ski storage

People leaving skis at the lodge is becoming a problem. Yalara chairman Ray Northwood is keen to charge members who leave skis there a yearly storage fee. There are plans for a cleanout and any skis without stickers will be removed from the lodge. Please contact Ray to ask for stickers to take down with you this season.

Toboggans and Sleds

A reminder that toboggans and sleds left in the winter entry of the lodge are not the property of Yalara and the club cannot be responsible for accidents or injuries to guests or visitors that occur from use of them.

Summer rates during ski season!

This year the October school holidays fall in the last two weeks of the ski season and the long weekend is not until the last weekend of the holidays. This means members' children can enjoy the snow for just $16 per night! There was still plenty of snow around at that time last year so we are hoping members will consider it for this season.

AGM

The next AGM will be held at Ryde Eastwood Leagues Club on Friday May 3. We'd love to see you and your family there!

50th anniversary dinner

Thanks to everyone who attended Yalara's 50th anniversary dinner at The Epping Club in November. Around 80 people made it to the event and had a wonderful time catching up. It was great to see so many young – and older – faces there. One of the highlights was a roving mic presentation by Martin Hardy where people told the stories behind the photos on display. To see more photos from the evening go to Yalara's Facebook page.
